TAPPING THE K.E.G.S.

KOMPUTER ENTHUSIASTS OF GREATER SEATTLE

Prez Says:

Ron Cowger

My wife and I are big football fans and because of her recent knee surgery and our being “house bound” for the last couple of weeks we have spent more time watching football on TV than we normally would. Normally, we just watch the games and comment to each other about various plays, errors and the thrilling successes that some players create. Since we have had all of this extra time lately, I have enjoyed using information from the Internet to look up team standings and player information more than I usually do. We have found it quite interesting to be able to obtain so much detailed information quite easily with just a few clicks of the mouse. I am beginning to see how some folks who have data plans on their smart phones could run up a big phone bill very easily if they got carried away looking up information that required their going through a cell phone system. I think I will continue to get by with my simple voice-only cell phone for quite a while and just use my computer to look up data from home where I have unlimited access to data on a broadband connection. It’s fun but not something I need to do when I am away from home. I’ll leave that for the younger set.

If you attended the October General Meeting I hope that you enjoyed the presentation by Chris Avis from Microsoft describing “the cloud” as defined in the digital world and various applications that use the cloud concept. I learned a lot about the subject and how the function can be used by both businesses and home users. I’m not sure that I’m ready to store any really important data on some company’s cloud storage server but it appears to be a concept that may catch on as time goes by. The easy access to one’s information from any Internet-connected computer is an attractive feature. It will be interesting to see how use of the cloud grows among individual, home users.

The presentation at the November General Meeting will be on Wi-Fi tablets. This was going to be the presentation in October but had to be rescheduled due to a conflict for the presenter. Sally Ann has arranged for Sean Peterson from Staples to talk to us about this currently very popular topic. He will tell us about the different features of several different models and give us some insight as to what to look for if one is selecting a model to buy. Sean hopes to be able to bring a couple of representatives from tablet manufacturers to our meeting to give us more detailed information on the products that they represent. It should be an interesting and informative meeting. I hope to see you there.

We still have ten of the new KEGS vests, both grey and green, for sale. The price is $26.00 per vest for sizes Medium through XL. All of the size 2XL vests have been sold.

If you'd like to have a vest, please come to the meeting with the correct change or a check in order to make your purchase. Everyone who has one of the new vests thinks they look great and I'm confident that you will agree. Now that cooler weather has arrived, the vest is an especially nice addition to any member's fall wardrobe. We will all look very sharp in them.

We are still looking for members who would be willing to serve on the KEGS Board of Directors next year. I encourage each of you to consider volunteering some of your time to help run the user group. The Board only meets once a month for less than two hours so most jobs on the Board don't take too much of a member's time. If you feel that the organization needs some new ideas and fresh faces on the Board, please volunteer to serve. Just tell any member of the Board that you are interested and he/she will give your name to the Nominating Committee. The Nominating Committee this year consists of Sally Ann Mowrey, Bob Baxter and me. Thanks for giving it some thought. We need you!

It looks like we will finish out 2011 with fifty-five members in KEGS. I'd still like to recruit some more folks to join us this year but I also want to remind you that you can now renew your membership for next year and earn the designation of an Early Bird member. This designation gets you an additional, free drawing ticket each month when you sign in at the General Meetings. As of the first of November, ten folks had already renewed their membership for next year. Additionally, we had a new member, Elaine Jaeger, join our organization in October. Please say "hello" and make her feel welcome.

Lastly, I want to remind all current KEGS members that you can earn $8.00 credit toward next year's dues for each new member that you recruit to join KEGS. If you can entice three new members to join this year, your dues for next year will be waived. Isn't that a great deal?

That's it for now. I will see you at the General Meeting or at one of our SIGs. I wish you happy and safe computing!
